

Build Your Own 点子

- Escape the Room game
- Portal themed text adventure
- A game where the time is in sync with real-world time
- Brain fuel
- Tool to help choosing between colleges and universities
-

Escape the Room

You, namely Test Subject #91946, had just been transported from the Relaxation Center to a newly constructed Test Track. As you entered the pre-test chamber, a prerecorded robotic voice gave some instructions through the loudspeakers, but then everything turned silent after a loud noise of explosion.

Look around:

You look around and saw the following things in the Pre-Test Chamber:
Chamber Door

The chamber door is locked. There seems to be a panel beside it - maybe you can enter a password?

Bottle of Liquid

It's a bottle of glowing purple liquid. It looks eerie and dirty, but you drank it anyway. Instantly, your vision becomes clearer and you can see through the dark now. It's a Nightvision Potion!

Broken Wall Panel

A part of the wall seems to be only loosely connected to its base.

There seems to be something behind it, but you can't see it.

Thanks to the Nightvision Potion, you notice that a whiteboard is stuck between the mechanical parts. You reached for it, and it came off pretty easily. The whiteboard is almost entirely covered with physics formulas, but on top of them writes in large and dark letters: Cake is a Lie.

Portal Gun

The Aperture Science Handheld Portal Device (trademarked) is in your hand. You should be able to create portals with it, but you really can get nowhere in this closed chamber.

You opened the door. Before you is a large, empty room. That's strange, it's supposed to be the Test Chamber! As you were wondering, a sudden hissing noise appeared as some apparently toxic gas entered the chamber. You must run, quickly!

Chamber Door

You went back to where you came from. Along with you came neurotoxin. Both of you have nowhere to go in this closed space, and your brain activity is quickly terminated by the gas.

Sewage

You found a metal sewage cover at one corner. With a crowbar out of nowhere, you broke it open and crawled inside. Fortunately, the neurotoxin floated high in the air, so you are safe from being suffocated here. After a few minutes of crawling, you finally reached the other end of the tunnel. After breaking open the cover with your handy crowbar, you crawled into a bright room with a huge robotic being in the center. It is GLaDOS, the legendary (and cruel) Personality Construct! It seems that she had just killed off all personnels in the facility with neurotoxin. She saw you and offered you some cake if you agree to return to the Test Track.

Accept the Offer

You were teleported back to a correctly furnished Test Chamber. Time to test for the cake! Or ... to be baked?

Deny the Offer

“Well, I don’t have time for you either.” GLaDOS fires a missile from the Sentry Rocket.

Duck Down!

It’s not enough! The impact of explosion raised you into the air. You landed hard, face first, and felt excruciating pain. You hear the sound of several additional missiles being fired, and fell unconscious.

Shoot Portals!

With unbelievable speed, you shot two portals, respectively at the missile’s point of impact and above GLaDOS. Before she can react, the missile exploded above her. She gave a deafening scream and you can see her components falling apart.

Soon, an armed task force came investigating. They are astonished by your success on murdering GLaDOS. One of the task force members invites you to join their institution, which they called “Black Mesa.” Following this, a new page of your life begun...